To Whom It May Concern

Re: Sean Edwards, President
Leisure Construction, Inc.

This letter will serve as our personal and our firm's unconditional recommendation for Sean Edwards and Leisure Construction, Inc. ("Leisure"). We have worked with several general contractors through the years on a variety of construction and renovation projects, and Leisure is by far the most professional, dependable and trustworthy of them all. Sean assembled a team that provided us the best workmanship imaginable, including structural steel work, roofing, carpentry, masonry, electrical and plumbing for our Penthouse Roof Terrace. And Leisure built us a sheltered kitchen and grilling area that can be completely sealed from the elements during hurricane season using a series of retractable storm shutters. We now have over 1,600 square feet of outdoor living space with a multilevel deck that we absolutely love, and we enjoy it on a daily basis thanks to Sean and Leisure.

We retained Andy Dohmen of Design Styles Architecture to develop our plans, and Sean worked hand in hand with him to ensure that the completed project was perfect. Sean did an exceptional job of explaining and documenting the project, keeping us informed and guiding us on decisions that needed to be made along the way. There are always unforeseen difficulties that arise during a complex construction project, and Leisure was there to resolve them quickly, completely and to our absolute satisfaction. Their attention to detail is incredible, and their workmanship is beyond comparison. It was a pleasure working with Sean and Leisure, and they are on the top of our list for any future construction needs that we may have. They do it all, and they do it very efficiently and cost effectively. I could not recommend them more highly.

Yours very truly
