

We would like to formally thank The Blue Book Network for the article done on White Construction of the Spring Who's Who in Building and Construction.

We have been overwhelmed by the positive response that we have received as a direct result of the publicity afforded to us by being promoted on the front cover. Most notably, we've been able to add over 50 new subcontractors in the past few months who have reached out to us requesting the ability to work together on future projects. We've also seen a significant increase in the response rate of our bid invites since the magazine was launched.

White Construction certainly recommends any and all involved in commercial construction to partner with The Blue Book Network. We have found the Michigan team to be exemplary since we were introduced in the early Spring and look forward to furthering our partnership in the very near future.

Most Sincerely,

W. Bernard White, P.E.
President
