Hi Tyler

It has always been my belief that large and complicated construction projects should be approached as a partnership between the owner, design engineer and contractors. Open communication and cooperation are the keys to success; both of these elements were prevalent throughout this project. Your construction team worked through all of the issues on his project in an efficient and professional manner and ODFW is very satisfied with the product that we received. Tapani underground performed above and beyond our expectations and ODFW looks forward to future projects with your company.

Please feel free to use this as a reference for other projects and I am always available to speak personally to anyone about your performance on this project.

Best Regards,

Jerry D Frampton
