

THE CONSTRUCTION RESOURCE

ENR

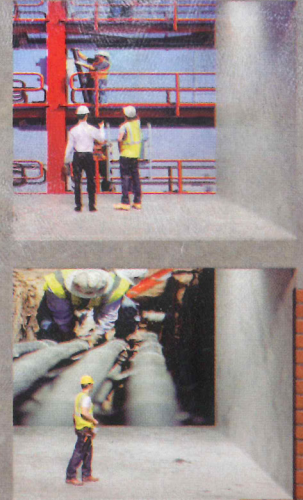

Engineering News-Record

OCTOBER 24, 2016 ■ enr.com

TOP

500

SPECIALTY CONTRACTORS

Most believe markets will continue to grow at least through next year (P. 47)

Rising to Any Challenge

For both the word and the company of that name, renascent has the same meaning: “rebirth” and “rising to new life.”

Renascent, the company, specializes in the demolition and repurposing of old structures and value creation for communities. With roots 30 years deep, it has grown rapidly, effectively playing its part in renewal of urban, campus, rural and public works projects, repurposing land and buildings to meet the technological, cultural and social demands of the 21st century.

Renascent brings that starting place of rebirth with expertise and safety in structural demolition, selective demolition and abatement services, as well as consulting, planning and budgeting support.

In addition to complete removal of towers and major university dormitories, airport structures and other projects, Renascent recently completed a 400,000-sq-ft partial demolition of an active hospital in Indianapolis, which included a five-story separation from the hospital’s main structure. Renascent designed and implemented a comprehensive deconstruction plan for the project, and it even reused all of the concrete from the demolition as backfill on the site.

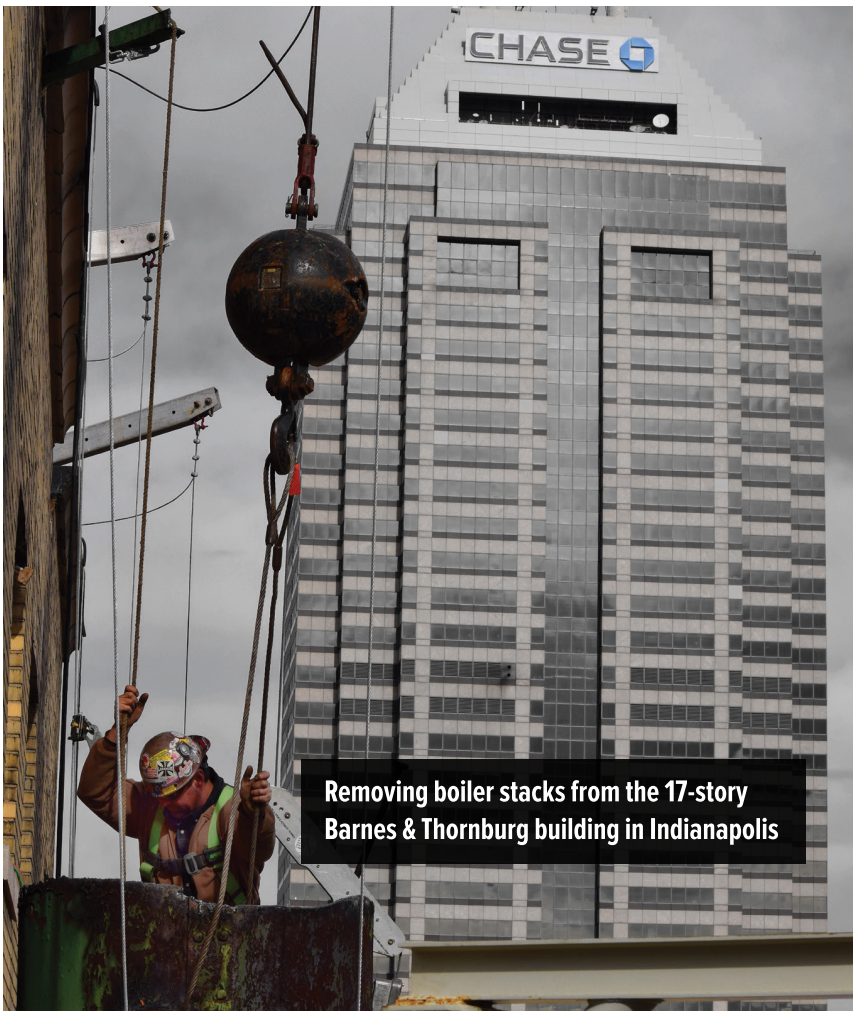

Renascent clears a hospital site in Indianapolis.

Similarly, Renascent is currently demolishing the Davidson Justice Center in Nashville, a 350,000-sq-ft structure, including a 126-ft jail tower. The project site includes four separate buildings, covering two city blocks. Once again, Renascent developed a deconstruction plan to maximize reuse of material and implement a protection plan for the Justice Center’s sky bridge.

For more information, visit www.renascentinc.com.

PHOTO: COURTESY OF RENASCENT

Removing boiler stacks from the 17-story Barnes & Thornburg building in Indianapolis

DEMOLITION

- consulting
- planning
- engineering
- getting it done

RENASCENT

Experts in Demolition™

- INFO@RENASCENTINC.COM
- 844.321.DEMO (3366)
- RENASCENTINC.COM