RE: The Renascent Corp.

To Whom It May Concern:

I would like to extend this letter of recommendation in respect to the service provided by Joshua Campbell and Renascent, Inc. for the recent demolition of the twin towers on the campus of Indiana State University that began in January of 2015 and was completed in December of that year.

The scope for the demolition work included taking the two 180' high rise structures connected by a one story building down all within a very restricted area along which included the total protection of a structure listed on the National Historic Register that sat less than 125' from the towers themselves. The scope was budgeted at nearly two million dollars. ISU contracted Renascent based on their pricing, experience, and past performance on other similar projects. Indiana State University is a State funded and requires a strict qualification process for selection of every subcontractor which Renascent has met or exceeded the criteria as outlined under all said requirements.

Under Mr. Campbell's leadership Renascent's performance from beginning to end lived up to the high standards we set for our contractors. Mr. Campbell and Renascent's performance was consistently good in all categories, including customer contact, safety, adherence to schedules, caliber of supervision, quality of workmanship, and attention to details.

They have been most willing to perform extra work at a reasonable price while continuing to make critical deadlines on a very fast-tracked project. Their cooperation throughout has been outstanding.

In today's highly competitive market where many contractors choose to bid low and hope to make their profits through change orders Renascent is different, possessing all the traditional values of a well-run business. All their employees speak the same language of dedication, commitment, and customer care. Based on the above Indiana State University world highly recommend Mr. Campbell and the Renascent company for any demolition project on our campus.

Sincerely
