To Whom It May Concern,

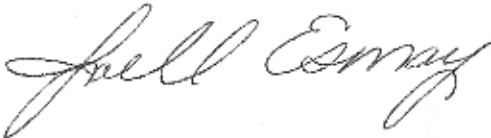

We have hired Capital R Construction on two separate occasions since moving to Casa Grande six years ago. The company built our home in 2005 and added on a ramada in 2010. We were originally recommended to Capital R by our realtor when purchasing land and were so pleased with the results that we hired Mr. Riggs to build our ramada.

Capital R Construction guided us through every step of each build. Estimates were given up front and detailed, itemized lists were given to us during the process. Supervisors were on site for the constructs and were readily available to us for questions or advise. Their staff was knowledgeable, efficient, and respectful of our property. Work was completed within the time frame's parameters, also.

Rusty Riggs is abreast of modern techniques and has a very good eye for structural aesthetics. He created a beautiful ceiling for our ramada using rough sewn beams and custom steel brackets. He installed concrete countertops in both our home and ramada. If you have a vision, he can bring it to life.

I would recommend Capital R construction to anyone looking to build a home, outdoor living area, or landscape a yard. Their team has pride in their product and passion for what they do. It shows in their work and ethics.

Sincerely,
