

DIAMOND AERO CORP

AKA Corona Aero Partners

Dwight Newsome
Newsome Construction, Inc.
113 NW Ellison
Burleson, TX 76028

February 11, 2013

Dear Mr. Newsome,

It is a pleasure to recommend Bill Williams, Williams Electric Co., to you. Too often when asked to recommend sub-contractors to other general contractors, I strain to select good things to say about most of them while hoping that my omissions will give a clue as to their limitations. From evidence of our long experience with Williams Electric, none of the above factors is a concern!

Williams Electric's service to us was always honest, timely, and reliable, with "clean," efficient and proficient workmanship, creatively competent treatment of unusually unique and complex electrical applications (overhead, bi-folding and sliding doors and lifts). Williams Electric also traveled considerable distance to do jobs for us on custom residential houses and apartments when asked to do so because of our confidence and appreciation of their work.

Since 1970 Diamond Aero Corporation has been in the business of building primarily aircraft hangars, aviation offices and facilities of all sizes, but also hangar/apartments, small office buildings, and residences at "live-on airports." Williams Electric provided us with its excellent service for over 10 years before moving their business to Texas. We have "gone through" several electric companies since Williams Electric has left us; they all have had disqualifying limitations. We have as yet found no electrical companies as comprehensively competent as Williams Electric.

An additional comment regarding Williams Electric's ability to "rise-to the occasion" was demonstrated after our local airport was flooded with mud and debris to heights of 8 to 12 feet. After the flood receded, extensive, immediate, emergency (overtime, etc.) recovery work was required, and Williams Electric reorganized and reprioritized their own work schedule to help get the airport back into operation. Also, any guaranty requests were always responded to immediately.

It is with pleasure to support a dissevering business, and with no reservations that I recommend Williams Electric to you as an excellent electrical sub-contractor.

Sincerely,

Fred Peters, President and CEO, Diamond Aero Corporation