

donald baerman, aia, architect, llc

42 wayland street, north haven, ct, 06473-4350

To whom it may concern:

Re: RECOMMENDATION FOR G L CAPASSO RESTORATION, INC.

Gentlepeople:

G L Capasso Restoration, Inc., asked me to write regarding their being included in the bid list for this Project as a roofing subcontractor. I have known them for well over a decade and have found their work excellent. Their major current project is the exterior restoration of the Asylum Hill Congregational Church in Hartford, which is going very well. The firm elected to work with a roofing subcontractor because of the large scale of the project, but their work interfaces with the roofing work. Other projects on which they have performed roofing and waterproofing work include:

Villa Candia, Malcolm Wiener residence, Greenwich (exterior masonry, stucco, lime wash, tile roofing, and sea wall work). My role was Architect.

Greenwich Towers, Greenwich (waterproofing of large plaza over basement space). My role was Architect.

24 Woodlawn Street, Hamden Residential shingle roof replacement (my daughters' house).

Newbury Common, Stamford. Waterproofing of several areas of site, including driveway and tennis court, under which there is a curb-to-curb underground parking area. My role is Architect.

Audubon Court residential condominium, Audubon Street, New Haven. Removal of a horizontal band of brick masonry above decks, construction of through-wall flashings, reconstruction of brick masonry, and repair of deck waterproofing. My role was consultant to the condominium association.

The Capasso firm excels in masonry restoration, but Joe Capasso is experienced in tile roofing, and one of their staff, Robert Lynch, is skilled in most other types of roofing work. I have found their work to be excellent.

Very truly yours,

Donald Baerman, AIA, Architect, LLC

(203) 288-8911; Fax (203) 288-7557; baerman@mindspring.com